

VISITOR INFORMATIONCurrency

The national currency in Belize is the Belize dollar; in Costa Rica it is the colon; in Nicaragua it is the Cordoba; Panama uses the Balboa and also accepts U.S. dollars as legal tender. U.S. dollars and travelers cheques can be exchanged at banks and hotels and are accepted virtually everywhere, especially in the resort areas. Major credit cards are accepted in most larger hotels, stores and restaurants; local currency is suggested at smaller establishments.

Tipping

Tipping is not only customary throughout Central America, it is appreciated in return for good service. Service employees rely heavily on tips as their wages are very low. Tipping guidelines are: $1 – $2 (USD) per bag for porters and $2 – $5 per day (based on room type) for housekeeping staff. Usually a tip is not included in your restaurant bill in Belize; a customary amount to tip is 15%. By law, tipping is included in any restaurant bill in Costa Rica, but additional gratuities for good service are welcomed. The standard tipping rate in Panama is around 10% of the bill, though in small cafés and more casual places, tipping is not necessary. In Nicaragua, some but not all restaurants add a service charge to the bill, so it's advisable to check your bill for a charge. While tipping is not expected, it's appreciated in return for good service, and 10% is a customary amount for a restaurant server.

Water

All major hotels and restaurants use purified water throughout. Most hotels provide bottled water in all rooms, and many hotels now have potable water delivered through their taps using an on-site purification system; there should be a note in your room if this is the case.

Electricity

The standard electrical service in Central America is 110 volts (same as the United States and Canada). Some electrical sockets do not accept three-prong or polarized plugs so it is recommended that you bring your own adapter.
